WEDNESDAY July 1st 1863.

THE RUNAWAYS.

The news from the country districts of the Banda Oriental is of such an alarming nature that it is high time we should call public attention to the matter.

From Salto to Higueritas the camps are so infested with runaways that it is not only imprudent to wear decent clothes when riding through the camps, but extremely perilous to remain at one's estancia.

Troops of cowardly vagrant blackguards, committing all sorts of depredations, prowl through the whole country. All the families have fled either to Buenos Ayres or into the neighbouring little towns. From the accounts received we have their estancias, their localities, and also, the state of things in that part, we never their property, winds of Heaven, we a state of anarchy country to-day, we have the Banda Oriental last March, who had travelled through its thickly-stocked camps, inspected its thriving towns and numerous villages, would on visiting that country this day be able to judge of the peculiar advantages of the Flores revolution and the character of his supporters.

We confess that had this Flores started from any other quarter than this city, had the newspapers of condemned his conduct, we should have found some consolation in the conviction that the cultivated society of B. Ayres were opposed to such acts; but when we see the 'Nacion Argentina,' 'Tribuna,' 'Nacional,' and all the small fry openly espousing the cause of the cause—when we see this once fair and happy country devastated and laid waste, and life and property jeopardized—when we see the once peaceful gaucho with a hungry, cowardly set of runaways, without the spirit to join or the courage to oppose the invader of his country—when we witness the nots of our own Government, which, instead of fearlessly asserting the cause of law and order, opens itself under a sort of pretended neutrality, and goins for it—when we see all this, we feel nothing but contempt and animosity of both Governments, and fear for the future prosperity of this unfortunate country. Instead of looking forward to peace, and the blessings that must follow upon it when all opinion dissonant of those of the Buenos Ayres is correct.

The intelligent leader of the Banda Oriental has made the most rapid strides. President Flores, if even his object was a devil one, has at least been successful in advancing the country which he governed. He has preserved peace and order, carried the law of the strong, and established a respect in the country abroad by carefully supplying good men to represent her in foreign parts.

In the London Exhibition has not the interior Diaries placed the productions of that country in conspicuous place. Has not the estimable Minister appointed agents through England, Scotland, and Ireland, for the purpose of inducing emigrants to settle there? Has he not purchased the imperial stores of the Emperor Napoleon, and sent out to the Banda Oriental the most valuable collection of agricultural implements which was ever exhibited in Europe?

Has General Mitre, it is time that we should ask the truth. Has not the Buenos Ayrean military which was to trust your own conscience tells you to adopt. We ask you not to support blanco or colorado; but we demand of you in a voice of thunder to put down revolution. These detestable revolutionary principles which now for nearly half a century have ruined, depopulated and demoralised this country, are you the man to unbrown them? Stand up like men to the ruin and desolation of your neighbour, and ask yourself is it right or proper to remain with your arms folded when it becomes your duty as the opposition of the invaders friends. Could you but hear the opinion of men of worth and position on the chance visited the other shores, and have now left your country for ever, you would awake from that lethargy which is becoming your characteristic.

May we ask you, sir, President of this Republic, has it ever entered into your head the direct injury which this Flores business is causing your country —true we have no Medina runaways—true our houses are not sacked nor our wives and daughters violated. But what are ounces, President of the Argentine Republic? think you that Penaloza and his hordes affect the blacks based on the Belen as much as the conduct of your ex-general. Why is the public robbed and the country brought to the very brink of ruin by the constant depreciation of our currency? Because, sir President, you destroy paper money, not revolutions: because nuisances are tolerated, and holders of them have lost confidence, they will neither trust to your bank nor your Government. High and mighty though you may be, you cannot command public confidence as you would a regiment of artillery.

Let us then in heaven's name put a stop to this multitude of River Plate misfortunes, let us prove to Europe and the world at large that revolutionary principles are not to be met with ever out of the River Plate. We all know that Berro his governor his country well, and Flores not; we are not going to all this invasion, revolution, raping and murder, by assisting this horrid blanco but good governor to establish his rule and tranquility in the country. Let us therefore from our shores the invader started. Let it be therefore from our shores the restorers of peace and happiness depart.

THE BRITISH HOSPITAL SOIREE.

(By a Lady.)

The event of the Week has been, without doubt, the amateur performance on Thursday evening, at the Colon Theatre, for the benefit of the British Hospital. About seventy persons were present, many natives and Germans having, in the most amiable manner, applied for tickets. The President, with his charming family, honoured the performance, and the Minister of State, who possesses the knowledge of the English language, enabled him to appreciate the two excellent farces given, with a knowledge of stage business which we really did not expect to find, though the performances of this amateur company have long been celebrated, but, we believe, this is the first time the public has been admitted; the result is most satisfactory, 20,000 dollars having been realised.

The performance commenced with some well-known and favourite glees, led by the talented Mr Marshall, and sung with great precision and feeling. The charming and youthful daughter of our friend, lately received amongst us, and of whose musical talent Madame La Grange had the kindness to speak with great interest, sang the well-known 'Robert toi que j'aime,' and o e of the favourite airs from 'Linda,' the latter given with great spirit, and giving no small evidence of effort, as to call forth thunders of applause. She was accompanied on the pianoforte by Miss Leslie, and Mrs Mann, 'came next, followed by more glees, then another farce, in which a lady respectably connected with our establishment, one moment we were again in the Haymarket, listening to the well-known tones of that prime of favourites, Madame Celeste. As a quarter past twelve o'clock the performance concluded with 'God save the Queen,' which every one obeyed, we should think with an agreeable evening. The ladies were mostly in full dress, which gave a very gay appearance to the rooms which were well lighted and ventilated. We congratulate the Committee of Management on the able manner in which their arrangements were carried out.

EDITORS TABLE.

The ampitheatrean rage has by de- one died out yet. Seriously a looker down that the fate of the Lees [illegible] are not the subject of conversation in every corner of the Sylvan Shades. In every case the Sylvan Shades [illegible] to seem, and old and young join in the mock heroic amusement. We should not however complain so much of this Lees brother fever, were it not that we learn with no small astonishment that three-fourths of the children born within the last three months are called after these flying heroes. We object to this, as it is forcing our opinions upon posterity, and as it has been said by a certain member of the House of Commons that posterity has done nothing for us, we don't see why we should interfere with the illustration upon the future rulers of the country.

Governor Saavedra and Minister Domingues have published a long tedious regulation respecting the Government lands, and the new mode of renting same. It seems to us that these gentlemen have adopted a systematic plan of persuading the public that notwithstanding their having doubled the price of public lands, the demand for them continues as great as ever. It is a notorious fact that the Land Bill was made so little business that the Governor's but it up and transferred the books, &c., to less expensive quarters. We therefore hope to see some practicable measure introduced in the way of reducing the price and offering some inducements to the hundreds of emigrants now landing to start off to the frontier, and become practical supporters of the country.

The shipwreck in the Parana of the national schooner Bruto of 5, are regarded in a light, is a striking picture of the danger of non insurance in the river. It is the practice here, both for foreigners and natives, to ship their wool, hides, and goods of all description, on board these little river boats, without ever dreaming of insuring them. We have all seen the risk; for a few paper dollars the danger can be covered in any of our marine insurance offices in this city; it is to ignore the height of folly to neglect insuring

Governor Urquiza has written a letter to the Govt, condemning him the Chachos depatches and his repines. This is what we call straightforward dealing, and more gentlemanly or friendly. Mr Cullen, that late redoubtable hero of Entre Rios has no sympathy whatever for the Argentine rebels. As a further proof of this, Urquiza is actually sending a contingent to Paraguay. We like that play although Urquiza's conduct in the Gowland matter has been infamous and sounds bloody enough. We cannot endorse in with our colleagues in charging him with complicity with the Chacho

Mr Mitre's conduct has been a terrible row between the 'Siglo' and some of its subscribers, who, not satisfied with stopping their subscription, have published their reasons for doing One Englishman, who claims to be the longest resident English foreigner in that city, states in his letter that he pays much more for the paper that the 'Siglo' transcribes all the articles of the 'Tribune,' with out even a comment, than he would for the same from the 'Standard,' for the purpose of attacking them. These things wont go down either in Montevideo or in Buenos Ayres, and we are bound to say, that the unknown Englishman from Montevideo, who supports revolution and bloodshed, has no right whatever to give his name to the public. We doubt if there is any one in Buenos Ayres who enjoys a more extensive acquaintance with the English foreign community than himself, and yet we only know of one Englishman and one Scotchman, who attempts to defend the Flores invasion.

The 'Mosquito' is rather good this week, the President is represented sporting on the back kicking up quite in the acrobatic style, whilst the Ministers are all standing around.

The opera company have been well off, Verdi's opera, Saturday last about night in 'Il Trovatore,' was greatly applauded. We doubt if ever we heard a tenor better in Buenos Ayres than on Saturday night. The Gitana was repeated on Monday night, and everything save the chorus seemed to go well. The opera of Norma, or Norma, which is a favourite in every city where a cultivated society exists. It is rather interesting to think that Casta Diva has less attractions for the public than acrobatic feats.

IRISH COLLEGE, LOBOS.

The rapid progress and development of the Irish interest in the province is so surprising that we can scarcely find a parallel even in the history of the remarkable age we live in. A few years ago, when Sir Woodbine Parish published his excellent work on B Ayres, the Province of Buenos was unknown even to most well informed Englishmen, and to most well informed Irishmen, or Irishmen of Irish descent, or Irish institutions. To-day we may safely indicate a foreign population in so firmly radicated in the republic, boasting such valuable possessions, or augmenting in number, wealth, and national institutions in so creditable and exemplary a manner. We may ride across the districts of Mantanzas, Navarro, Luxan, Mercedes, Giles, Fortin Areco, San Antonio, and Pilar, without meeting the Irish farmer and Pilar, and find we have not traversed a yard of camp unowned by Irishmen. We may in the wool season visit the North and South markets, and learn the industry of our camp friends by finding their tons of snowy fleeces waiting for Sunday's sale. We may on Sunday repair to one of the numerous camp towns, and see hundreds of countrymen and countrywomen attending the Irish service in the performance of Divine service.

It is true many Scotch, English, American, and Basque settlers have been no less fortunate, enterprising and industrious; but their numbers are comparatively small, and our present object is to review merely Irish progress.

In the province of such material development as that of Buenos Ayres, the number of our 20,000 sheep farmers contented themselves with doubling their flocks or becoming lords of the soil. Most of them are lords of humble estates, of uncouth manners, but, so far from deserving the epithet 'barbaros' applied by the Argentines there is a striking feature for learning in the very poorest Irish rancho which ennobles, sanctifies, and adorns, while it throws in unfavourable contrast the dislike of even so general among Argentine youth. Many an Irish camp family is devoid of the common comforts of life, but not one is without a subscription of some kind or other.

The passion for educating their children, which is shown in Ireland, and which made the Emerald Isle the lamp of learning during the darkages—which resisted every effort of tyranny to destroy it, and which, even in our own days within the last half-century has produced so many brilliant intellects—shows itself in Buenos Ayres. If we turn to this only Convent we find a home and a sanctuary where the daughters of our countrymen receive an education second to none in Europe.

But the College of Lobos is an event, as well as an institution, which calls for remarkable notice. The Reverend Dr Fitzsimons and his Power, are men belonging to a class seldom seen in South America—the former, who took a degree at Trinity College of Arts in the London University, and also Doctor of Philosophy in a continental Academy, and well known in Ireland as the Editor of Cahill and Co. Clare, which stood highest in the proportion of successful candidates for Intermediate honors Dr. Fitzsimons can point with pride to many eminent men of the day, who graduated under his management, showing that, besides the profound acquirements of a gifted scholar, he possesses that rare talent of imparting to others the golden treasures of literary lore.

Mr. Power is an ex-fellow of the noble University of Dublin, and a worthy colleague of the former. The establishment is under the management of Lobos, being a fine two storied house, with splendid suite of rooms and commanding view.

The domestic arrangements are in excellent style, both for instructive and sanatory purposes, and we do not use hyperbole when we say that the College of Lobos will turn out men superior to the disciples of our declining University. We may Irishmen regard it as one of the most auspicious events in the life of exile, and we are happy to learn that there is already thirty-six resident pupils.

We deem it unnecessary to enter into personal prejudices do we advocate the claims of the Irish College of Lobos, but from an honest conviction that it is destined to be a great moral instrument—that its directors, locality, and programme are highly suitable to the purposes for which it is intended to be supported. In conclusion we wish it "God-speed."

CAMP IMPROVEMENTS.

As the Banking affairs are evidently becoming somewhat flat, stale and unprofitable, and the articles written upon that subject being evidently written by men more accustomed to these affairs than I am, I will endeavour to call the attention of your camp friends to the following remarks which, I hope will be read with as much attention as any that have been written upon the rotten bank rag affair.

During my sojourn in the country for a few months I had every opportunity of visiting the sheep farmers, and noticing their method of farming, business and attention. I observed that in every establishment that was under rent a total want of cultivation—total attempt of improvement—nothing but the bare rancho and sheep corrales, and upon asking the question why they did not attempt improvement, the invariable reply was, "If we attempt improvement the owner of the land will raise the rent." In reply to this I would suggest that in every agreement or lease made out an article should be inserted that all improvements or plantations made by the lessee should be held for at the expiration by the land owner. In support of this I will call your attention to the following incident. A Scotch friend of mine who rented a piece of land in a neighbouring district, had an article inserted in his agreement to that effect, and at the expiration of his term the owner of the land was only too glad to renew his lease for a term of years free of rent, to pay for the improvements that had been made.

Trees break the clouds, and clouds produce rain, they afford an agreeable shade during the hot summer months if fruit trees, fruit in its season, and the cuttings and prunings fuel for the winter, which is better than the filthy substitute, sheep's dung, now used which requires the constant application of grease to keep it alive; the last article forms part of the profit of the sheep farmer.

Vegetables, which are as much required for the food of man as butcher's meat, if cultivated, would be of great benefit, and where is the Irishman or Englishman who would not be delighted to see a good garden. Mostly all the Waldi, of John Walsh, Limerick; Patrick Connor and sister, Co. Meath; Joseph Geoghegan, James Cavanagh, Richard Cavanagh, Ellen Cavanagh—Wexford; and twenty six others mostly from Westmeath. These persons arrived yester- day, per the Argentine, from Montevideo, where they arrived on Saturday last in the Argo, from Liverpool (April 20th)

CORDOVA.

Extraordinary Telegraphic Despatch.

Yesterday a diverging role into the Plaza all the way from Once to bring the very latest news.

Pomero was in front of the Church, and the Chacho in front of Pomero. Pomero's force was said to be 2,5 0, and the Chacho's nearly as many.

Pomero was surrounded, by the intelligent chasque that a fight was probable, but he could not say which would win.

Whoever sent the chasque might have kept out of the way of danger, until there was really some news of importance.

The Chacho, it he stay a little longer, will probably get caught in, as I then, please Heaven, we will put a finish to those eternal rebels.

The month has at last thousand five hundred ounces were sold for cash on to-day. At half past three they opened at 462; at twelve they had sold—to 460. In half an hour they ran down to 457 for which 100 ounces were sold for cash. Ounces as may appear the sun was of the transactions, we do not hesitate to say that very few ounces changed hands as to the majority of the transactions were for hundreds. One thousand ounces at 460, buyers.

A sort of rumour was freely circulated on the Bolsa about three-post yesterday, to the effect that the Provincial Bank had declared that for the purpose of having paper and driving gold down. Although not in a position to corroborate it, we think it highly probable that the managers of these banks would attempt such a dangerous game. What the Unico of Mexico with all its millions could not accomplish, even with the assistance of the Government, we very much question if three banks will be able to do in Buenos Ayres.

A subscriber of ours has 130 arrobas of wool on his estancia, ready for any attack either by the Brazil an filibusters or Government deserters. The news from Cordova had very little effect on ounces, as it was generally known to be grossly exaggerated, and that it was amounted to nothing.

The Pavon and Saintenge are expected in to morrow (Wednesday)

The Money left this evening for Montevideo, the difficulty respecting the Paleski having been amicably settled, by which we sincerely thank the President

We regret to observe the failure of a certain indigence proctor, said to be up for over half a million. Another failure is also talked of, but we believe the story is without the slightest foundation

Money is still very scarce, and very few of even the best bills can be discounted under 1 1/2 per cent a month

The financial position of the country was never so critical as at present; business is unusually dull, and yet positively money is dearer than at the west season. In vain we look for any reasonable reason for this extraordinary pressure; in vain we search for any great speculation which might drain our money market, or give new employment to money. In all our bulk breaks upon us, that the grossest mismanagement, by Ministers, Bank directors, &c., is the immediate cause of all our trouble. When men will stoop to introduce measures which they must know are calculated to depreciate still further our currency when a scandalous license is allowed to the revolutionary press of the city; when in a journal, which although not the government organ, still the editor of which, is no insignificant employee in the Government house, it is openly asserted that the Bank should have felons wages paid for his ounces when demanded, when our communication with Montevideo is interrupted by the frivolous cause of the capture of the Salto, People will naturally ask themselves, where is the President of this country, and does he take cognizance of all this. Does he or does he not approve of the sub Secretary of state on the revolution and bank deposit question, and has he neither the courage to disavow nor the fear to retain him. Has Gen. Mitre forgotten that only last Saturday, a leading Montevideo Journal, in our views, having during his short stay, witnessed the formidable state both of the Banda Oriental and our currency, and the "improving" policy, let fall a hint of not all of our journals, if we have ounces at 4 0 0 dey, why how! have my new emissions been issued no, has the issuing of our paper money been stopped? no, or has any clique bought up all the ounces for the sole purpose of raising their value? no. But, if our readers wish to know, why ounces are at such frightful figures, we point to items in the Banda Oriental, and the disastrous effects of terror spread over that country to Dr. Sinsfield and his free Banking law; to Dr. Dominguez with his new interest raising to Dr. Varela with his new Bank deposit rule; to the outer roads, where our ships are leaving in ballast for our supply hurricane; our deadly inactivity. These are the causes of the rise in ounces; not Penaloza, whom we all believe to be nothing more nor less, than an ignorant vain puppet and not corporal sole, in Catamarca nor even Urquiza in Entre Rios. All these are unimportant enemies, which are no doubt to of concern, or the fears of the sympathies of the public. We have said it, and now repeat it, Peace revolution will do no more than injury, then what people are willing to imagine. Every week, every day, every hour that, that man continues in his quixotic views, the more certain will the Banda Oriental, and in our money market will be on the increase—because public confidence is rapidly evaporating. We are sorry to say it, but it is unquestionable fact that the National Government is losing ground fast. We implore him, we say, that we demand, that Gen. Mitre, come forward like a man, and put a stop to this sad state of things. If something is not done, before many days, the Banda Oriental will be ruined. The interests of foreigners in that country are enormous, shall they be jeopardized? whilst the man who professed himself the friend of peace and industry, and the universal friend of humanity, and foreign enterprize, stands with his arms folded looking on at the neighbouring devastation & ruin. We hope not.

Unmoved, yet pure, the dull, undismayed, yet trembling, for the fate of the lives and fortunes of our fellow-countrymen on the other side. We throw down at President Mitre's feet, his speeches, addresses, programm es and promises, and ask him now the 11th hour to fulfil them. God grant that we shall not appeal in vain.

We are happy in this hour of dejection and suffering, to report that there are still hopes for cotton. The "Mersey" took 16 bales to England on Saturday. Our indefatigable cotton buff n Mr. Hutchinson, H M's Consul at Rosario, is selecting seed over the whole province of Santa Fé.

Much surprise is expressed at the sudden stoppage of the Poca Railroad works, we are led to believe that until Mr. Simpson's return, the road will not be recommenced.

We learn upon the very best authority, that unless the Government can manage to get all things settled as regards the Chascomus railway Co., and the contract, the Engineers both of the sol dissent Co, and the contractors will return to Europe by the French packet. It behoves the Governor to sir himself in the matter, as the mismanagement has been of long tried, and won't go down any more.
